

Statewide Upcoming

Joel Isaak let us know about the Dena'ina Language and Culture Revitalization Project, which is looking for qualified applicants for a paid 2018 summer apprenticeship. You can find out more here and read the request for qualifications here and here. If you have any questions, you can email Joel. Congratulations to the Kenaitze Indian Tribe for their incredible work innovating language revitalization!

Calendar

Alaska Native Language Revitalization Institute
May 21-24 - Fairbanks

Where Are Your Keys (Unangam Tunuu)
May 20-August 5 - Anchorage

Tlingit Language Immersion Workshop
May 26-28 - Juneau

Iłisaqatıvut
June 3-17 - Nome

ILL: Practicing Immersion Workshop
June 10-12 - Pueblo of Pojoaque

Let us know if we're missing something!

Past two weeks in language revitalization

Inspiring to read about efforts to revive a long-dormant language in Massachusetts, and to read again about the lessons Hawaii can teach us. HB 102 aims to remove the same sort of policy barriers in Alaska that Nāmaka Rawlins talks about tackling in Hawaii.

Sealaska Heritage Institute has an amazing interactive map of Tlingit place names in Southeast, in their exhibit "Native Voices on the Land."

More great press about the linguistic emergency resolution--HCR19--in national news!

Read about the various phone apps and other digital resources available in Australia.

The Canadian government just gave funding for T̓silhqot'in Community Radio, which will have programs and news in T̓silhqot'in, Carrier, Nuxalk and English! Here's looking at you, KTUU.

University of British Columbia is getting street signs with Indigenous Musqueam names to acknowledge Musqueam First Nation's history on the land! Something to think about for Alaska.

A new Dakota language immersion school is opening up in Minnesota, started by language warrior Vanessa Goodthunder.

New York City has just added its first English-Albanian dual language school. Amazing progress!

Sweet Resource

Kandi McGilton from the Haayk Foundation let us know about fifteen instructional videos and a Sm'algayax-English bilingual guide to Twining Ceder: Annette Island Tsimshian Basket Weaving, which you can find free from the Haayk Foundation and Smithsonian Arctic Studies Center. Look at photos and find out more here.

Last tidbit

Something cool happening in your community? Language resources others should know about? Let us know! We'll send it out.

About the Digest – What is this and why am I getting it?

This mailing is our attempt to connect Alaskans who are invested in Native language revitalization. Periodically, we send out a short mailing including relevant news articles, stories from around Alaska, and anything else we, or you, find meaningful and inspiring. You are always welcome to contribute — just reply to this message. You can see our past digests here.

If you know someone who should be getting this but isn't, also let us know.

And last, let us know if you wish to unsubscribe. We'll take you off.

Who are we?

We are a loose group of individuals passionate about Alaska Native language revitalization. We want to connect people across the state to share experiences, challenges, and successes. We want to spread best practices. Most of all, we want to see our Alaska Native languages thrive once more.

Contributors

This issue was put together by Veri di Suvero, with input from Cordelia Kellie and Dewey Hoffman.